TELLING YOUR OWN STORY
A BRAINSTORMING WORKSHEET FOR TAKING ACTION

What is your name?

Where do you live?

What role do you play in your community?

What brought you to Oregon and why have you stayed here (or what do you miss)?

When did you first see a salmon, steelhead, or orca understand their impact?

What would your Oregon experience look like with renewable and clean energy?

Why is the Snake River or free-flowing rivers important to you?

What does your Oregon experience look like personally or for your family?

What should be done?

Congressman Simpson's "Columbia Basin Initiative" proposal would...

- Restore the lower Snake River and bring back abundant, wild Snake River salmon and steelhead. Enhance local economies and support the culture of local communities, who depend on Columbia Basin Salmon and Steelhead.

- Help save Southern Resident orcas who rely on Columbia Basin Chinook salmon for the majority of their diet.

- Develop clean energy throughout the region and modernize the Northwest's energy transmission system, bringing local investment and energy security to rural areas and making future power prices more certain.

- Improve water quality and quantity throughout the Northwest via watershed partnerships and university research programs.

- Help businesses transition to a revitalized Snake River waterfront and enhance the Lewiston-Clarkston area as a recreational destination.

- Rebuild and expand road and rail links to ensure that eastern WA and OR farmers continue to move their crops efficiently.

- Establish a “Snake River Center for Advanced Energy Storage,” a new research laboratory to be co-located in Lewiston-Clarkston and the Tri-Cities, WA.

- Modify irrigation infrastructure along the lower Snake River corridor so it continues to function in a restored river.

- Designate a new Lower Snake River National Recreation Area.

USE SOCIAL MEDIA
MANY DECISION-MAKERS USE SOCIAL MEDIA, AND PAY ATTENTION TO IT

• Like a Letter to the Editor, decision-makers use social media as a gauge for public opinion. Just a few comments can make an impact.

• Social media makes it easier for people to engage on issues, and decision-makers have to be more responsive.

• Social media plays a valuable role in getting the attention of a decision-maker, but it also informs others that care about an issue.

And remember...
• Speak to shared values. Be respectful.
• Motivate others to engage and speak up by sharing your posts, tagging others and using hashtags.
Still to this day, publishing your opinion as a letter to the editor (LTE) in your local paper can influence elected officials. Decision-makers rely on local papers as a gauge for public opinion, and as an influential community member, your voice matters.

LTE’s should be localized, punchy, and timely. Your fellow community members read LTE’s to find out how people think or feel about particular issues and how those issues affect them locally, not to hear in-depth policy analysis or engage in national policy debate.

State the reason you are writing, make 2 or 3 strong factual points to support your position, state why this issue matters to you (personal story - write from the heart about why you care), state clearly what you are asking for, and keep it short (Usually 200-300 words max). Ground your story in some aspect of the proposal.

- State your name, where you live, and what you do.
- Thank Congressman Mike Simpson for his proposal and Gov. Brown and Rep. Blumauer for supporting it. The proposal is bold, comprehensive, and urgently needed for the people of the Northwest.
- The proposal is a solution for many of the challenges facing the people of the region and it ensures a prosperous future for all of us while restoring abundant, healthy, and self-sustaining populations of salmon and steelhead to the Northwest.
- The comprehensive proposal includes funds/investment throughout the Northwest for clean, reliable and affordable energy, clean water, outdoor recreation, local communities who depend on salmon and steelhead, improvements for transportation and irrigation for farmers and other water users, and research on clean energy and storage technologies.
- Urge Sens. Wyden and Merkley to support the Columbia Basin Initiative proposal as it addresses the concerns of all stakeholders and makes Northwest communities whole.
